RESEARCH APPLIED TO MUSEUM EDUCATION

Certified by the University of Murcia

Addressed to university graduates working in museums and Museology students from the Latin America and the Caribbean Islands

New! Course on applied research

This is an online course conducted by the University of Murcia in Spain in collaboration with the International Committee of Education and Cultural Action (ICOM-CECA) to promote scientific research and disseminate knowledge in research processes applied to different museum fields. The course is intended for graduate professionals working in museums and students of museology from Latin America and the Caribbean who have not received training in research methodology. Preferably members of ICOM-CECA, for whom 60% of the places will be reserved. You can find more information here.

CECA Awards

Are you proud of your education program or research project? Then get involved! Every year, we award prizes to inspiring programs and research in the field of museum education and audience participation. These are the Best Practice Award and the Colette Dufresne-Tassé Award. It is a great way to bring your program or research to the attention of other members and organizations. Take part and see the terms and conditions on the CECA website:
