Program

Museums are educational sources for exploring and understanding cultural heritage, making it an essential platform for learning and sharing knowledge. The two-day international hybrid training session, "Education in Museums", marks the inaugural session in a series of Museology seminars organized by the Research Deputy of Research Institute of Cultural Heritage and Tourism (RICHT) with the ICOM International Committee for Education and Cultural Action (CECA). This program is designed to increase museum professionals' awareness of informal education and the dissemination of knowledge and enhance the culture of education in museums.
